REUSABLE SANITARY NAPKINS

Why do we make this product

According to the UNHCR data, girls in refugee camps enter in junior school 50% less than boys in Africa, and the reasons that prevent them from going to school are their "good friends" who come on time every month, "menstrual poverty" and "menstrual shame", continues to push them, who should be sitting in the classroom to read, into the abyss of early marriage, early pregnancy and sexual violence. The same thing happens in some poor areas.

Local women cannot afford sanitary napkins and can only use rags, which often causes them to get diseases during menstruation. The high consumption of disposable sanitary napkins also greatly increases the cost of aid of NGO.

Hence, HEALPAD, a reusable sanitary pad, provides a comfortable and hygienic experience for the women and girls.
